ICT to work from home in times of COVID-19

COVID-19 has shaken the whole world and has changed our routines overnight. However, at ODC we believe that such bizarre days can also be an opportunity to learn from each other, strengthen relationships and discover new things.

We encourage the Cambodia ICT Camp Alumni to participate in our blogpost contest ICT to work from home in times of COVID-19!

We want to hear how you are living these days and how technology and ICT tools are helping you to keep up with your work, socialize and learn from home. This is a great chance to stay in touch, share your experiences and recommendations with the network and inspire others.

How will the contest run?

Announcement of the blogpost contest

Participants will produce creative stories and submit them by May 20th at midnight

The committee will review all stories and announce the winners on May 25th

Awards

1 100 USD

2 75 USD

3 50 USD

Besides, the best 5 stories will receive a surprise gift and will be published on the Cambodia ICT Camp website.

Your stories

Here are a few ideas to inspire you — but feel free to let your imagination fly!

- First things first! The current situation can be overwhelming for many of us, so how are you emotionally coping with social distancing and other measures?
- How are you adapting to doing your tasks from home?
- What ICT tools are you using and how are they helping you to keep working, studying, teaching, parenting and keeping in touch with your loved ones?
- How are you applying the lessons learned at the Cambodia ICT Camp 2018?
- What tech limitations do you face and how would you benefit from other ICT tools?

Eligibility criteria

- Be creative! Use pictures and videos (up to 2 minutes)
- Stories must be between 500 and 1000 words
- Contest open only to Cambodia ICT Camp 2018 Alumni
- The deadline for submission is midnight May 20th!
- Email you stories to: event@cambodiaict.net
